

Bromley Voluntary Sector Trust (BVST)

Main duties and responsibilities for trustees

Each individual member of the trustee board has a responsibility to contribute to the discharging of the board's duties. They can do this by:

- maintaining an awareness of the business of running Community House Bromley
- taking responsibility for their own learning and development
- regularly attending, preparing for and taking a full part in meetings
- actively contributing to setting policy and strategic direction, defining goals, setting targets and evaluating performance
- monitoring whether the service provided complies with the governing document, and how well the advice needs of the local community are being met
- monitoring the financial position and ensuring that BVST and Community House operates within its means and objects, and that there are clear lines of accountability for day-to-day financial management
- supporting the development of the service to the community through participation in agreed projects
- actively seeking to further the strategic objectives of the Trust, and acting in its best interests at all times
- maintaining confidentiality about any sensitive or confidential information received in the course of duties as a trustee.

Personal skills and qualities for trustees

Each individual member of the trustee board brings skills and qualities to the board. They add to the collective knowledge and experience by providing:

- commitment and availability to attend trustee board meetings
- effective communication skills and willingness to participate actively in discussion
- willingness to gain knowledge of local needs and resources
- commitment to the aims, principles and policies of BVST.
- ability to understand and accept their responsibilities and liabilities as trustees and employers
- numeracy to the extent required to understand accounts with the support of a treasurer
- willingness and ability to learn, and to develop and examine their own attitudes
- ability to think creatively and strategically, and exercise good, independent judgement
- ability to work effectively as a member of a team.
